Welcome

The Oddfellows was traditionally a historical society. Sometimes known as the society of misfits, they provided a place for those who didn't fit into a professional box. They were not the lawyers, the doctors or accountants. Instead Oddfellows embraced the philosophers, dreamers and idealists – and still do today.

As a hotel collection, we are inspired by the very British sense of eccentric creativity and joyful Oddfellows society's ethos. This can be felt by our guests through the quirky design, the atmosphere and celebration of our building's unique history and character.

“...And so the adventure begins”

Our Hotels

C H E S T E R

Oddfellows Chester is housed within a beautiful example of an Oddfellows Hall where the society would once meet. The frieze inscribed with Oddfellows Hall still stands above the doorway today. Thus began the wonderful association with this society for dreamers with both sister hotels; Oddfellows and Oddfellows On The Park.

Oddfellows Chester inhabits a wonderful Georgian townhouse first owned and built by Lady Mary Calverley in 1676. Lower Bridge Street, the wide avenue that links the River Dee to the main shopping cross, was previously, as much of the rest of the city, built in Medieval rows. Lady Mary had friends that were demolishing these historic homes to create something ever so much more fashionable and she was definitely the type to keep up with the Joneses!

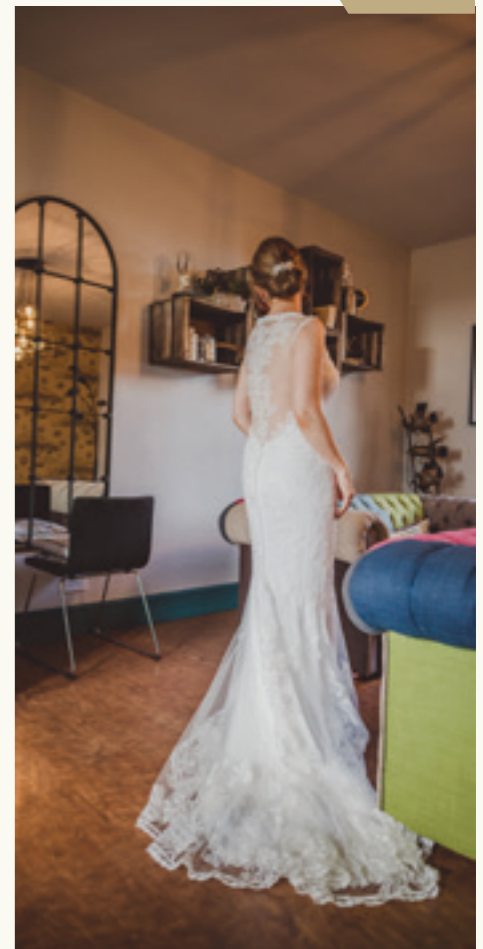

As a result, her grand Georgian townhouse became the first in the city to be designed in classical style. One of our individually-designed loft rooms is named The Lady Mary and we like to suppose this is where this very strong and determined lady might have laid her head. We have two gorgeous rolltop baths in that room as homage to the Lady that would always make sure she had the best and the most of everything!

ON THE PARK

Oddfellows On The Park has an entirely different history. A Victorian mansion, fashioned in Gothic style, it was built by John Douglas, a stuff merchant. His wife was Scottish and it was rumoured they modelled the house on a Scottish mansion they admired. The Scottish connection can be seen in the original thistle detailing in the Stud Room Bar and in the bespoke carpets in many of the bedrooms.

The second owner of Bruntwood Hall used the parkland as an equestrian stud. Major James Platt was known locally as The Galloping Major as he was most often seen on horseback around the village – sporting his fantastic handlebar moustache. Local history tells us he was an inimitable character, who was a social animal with a very playful personality. He extended the original Bruntwood Hall to include the sprung ballroom which now holds The Galloping Major restaurant. The ballroom was said to have cost almost as much as the Hall itself!

Since then, Bruntwood Hall has had a number of uses – as the town hall during the second world war, headquarters for a fashion designer and a recording studio amongst them!

Both hotels have been restored with their history and narrative involved in the design journey. And this is why Oddfellows is different. We don't just make hotels – we restore buildings back to their former glory, breathing life into them again and telling their stories to our customers.

Event Spaces

THE AVERAGE
HOTEL FUNCTION
ROOM IS NOT FOR US

Our event spaces are the crowning glory of our hotels.

The first floor at Oddfellows Chester is where the drawing rooms would have once sat that received the grandest of visitors and offered the ultimate in Georgian luxury. The whole of the first floor is private and reached by a fabulous grand staircase that provides the ultimate in dramatic entrances. High ceilings, sash windows and lovely large room dimensions highlight this space that includes a woodland themed bar, complete with dramatic boxing hare willow sculptures. There is also the modern addition of a roof terrace offering a private outdoor space that overlooks the Mary Poppins-esque chimney tops of Chester.

The Parlor Rooms in Cheshire were also the place where, in times gone by, the most important guests would be received. With the sweeping views over the parkland that these rooms command, it's easy to understand why. The rooms have been kept to their original dimensions with concessions made to provide flexibility for events with dividers to separate when necessary. The beautiful hexagonal Parlor Bar mirrors the original patterns found in much of the ceiling detailing and provides a private bar for events, with direct access on to the beautiful spacious terrace... which is just the most perfect place for a champagne reception!

Food Glorious Food

WHAT CUTS THE MUSTARD?

Food is at the heart of every wonderful occasion! The Oddfellows team are unashamed foodies with our chefs creating award-winning food that has led to brilliant national reviews. Unlike many wedding venues, your menu will be personally designed by the head chef at each hotel. He will meet with you to get to know you as individuals - giving you a chance to discuss your favourite dishes and how we can make your personality as a couple shine through into the menu. As with everything else, we are flexible in our approach to dining. Fancy a black-tie cocktail party with elegant canapés? No problem! Or a rustic, country-style BBQ on the terrace? Our chefs will work to any brief. We have had weddings that have had a Mad Hatter's Afternoon Tea for the wedding breakfast or street-style bowl food - all the way through to grand gala style events with a five course tasting menu and absolutely everything in between.

Drink up!

Y O U D O N ' T P O P Y O U R C O R K F O R E V E R Y G U Y Y O U M E E T . . .

Here at Oddfellows, we believe that no good story starts with a salad... Our mixologists and our beverage team will advise the perfect wine, bubbly and cocktails to help you celebrate your special day and dance the night away.

Most people like to toast their vows with fizz or champagne and with a choice of everything from Italian prosecco to vintage French champagne we will make sure your fizz of choice pops your cork! Fancy something a little different? For those gorgeous crisp winter weddings, Kir Royale is a popular choice, whilst in the heat of the summer a Bellini can really refresh.

All our wedding couples are invited in for a wine tasting, usually combined with a food tasting with our head chef so that wine choices can be paired up according to the flavours in the food. Wine is something we do extraordinarily well, even if we do say so ourselves. Our senior team love wine and we have relationships across the globe from California to Italy. We know small family vineyards who create vegan, organic wines and we also have relationships with the famous names who have created fabulous wines for centuries. We have over 180 bins (or different wines in non-merchant speak) to choose from. They are new world and old world and even include up-and-coming wine producers from Lebanon and the UK!

Some couples like to create a cocktail for their special day, sometimes something that matches their theme or just named after people or places that are important to them. Our mixologists can dream up bespoke creations or just add a twist to your favourite cocktails. You can even create a mini-cocktail menu for the day for your guests to choose from, or include our Oddfellows Gin, created especially for Oddfellows using English botanicals and herbs.

Let me entertain you..

Wedding parties are notoriously good fun so here's a few ideas to make your party go with a bang! From quirky to classic, and whimsical to sophisticated, this is the area in which you can show some flair and originality. Our wedding coordinators will assist you, making your wedding day exceptional and unique.

Live music

Create a rip-roaring welcome with a band at the entrance to the hotel. The sights and sounds of musicians as guests arrive will be a lasting memory.

Vocalists

Singing waiters or acapella vocalists can transform a traditional drinks reception into a rousing sing song of anything from pop to opera.

Horse racing

Chester has the oldest racecourse in England still in use today. With events from May to September, take the opportunity to have a flutter on a horse. Whether you organise a sweepstake, or place bets for guests in advance, they are sure to partake in the fun of following the race and seeing who comes in first.

Casino

Certainly, an icebreaker amongst guests, a casino table is a superb way of engaging your friends and family. When everyone has complimentary chips to play with, the competition remains light-hearted. Set a challenge for the table with the most winnings to receive a glass of something as they sit down for dinner.

Jukebox

Let guests take on the role of DJ... Include a section on your RSVP cards for favourite songs and fill the jukebox with these suggestions. As they choose the music during the reception, the favourites will quickly be revealed.

Cocktails

Greet your guests with a series of mini cocktails and see who could pass as a mixologist by determining the ingredients of each one. The aesthetics of a decadent cocktail can be as intoxicating as the alcohol content!

Before the Wedding

“I look at you and see the rest of my life”

ON THE PARK

The pressure can be huge for a bride to look amazing on her wedding day. As soon as outfits are sourced, and colour schemes are confirmed, beauty becomes the focus. With a little planning, your skin, hair and nails can all be made to look sensational...

Here's The Pigsty Team's Top Tips...

Start now...

Drink water, skin is thirsty! Carry a bottle wherever you go and fill it up regularly, this soon becomes second nature and you will quickly see and feel a difference.

Start each day by applying an SPF to your face. Factor 15 or higher is recommended, just put it next to your toothbrush and it will become part of your daily routine.

Remove make up at the end of the day before applying a good moisturiser to your face and neck before your head hits the pillow.

A few months to go...

Exfoliate once or twice a week to keep skin glowing.

Now is the time to try out different facials or nail techniques – to see which bring the best out of your skin.

It is important at this stage to settle on a hair colour and cut and nail techniques that you will maintain in the run up to the wedding.

Be sure to book your appointment times with our team for the week before and the day of the wedding.

The week of...

Stay calm and clock up those hours of beauty sleep.

Make a checklist and note the appointments you have arranged so that you can keep on track for the week.

Relax and indulge yourself for at least an hour or so at a time at the salon. This is the time to enjoy massages and invigorating body treatments.

Consider incorporating our pre bridal journey as part of your bridal celebrations. Our team will prepare a bespoke plan for you with a schedule of facials, massages, beauty appointments, use of the mud room and more. Truly indulgent!

Top Tips

FROM A WEDDING PLANNER

Break in your shoes: They're no doubt brand new and you'll be wearing them for a while on the big day. Wear them for a short period of time each day around the house and walk around on a few different surfaces. Clean your ring - head to your jewellery store to get your engagement ring professionally cleaned so it's extra sparkly on your wedding day.

It's your day and you should celebrate it in a way that's personal to you. Go to bed early the night before. With excitement and nerves running high, it may take you a little bit longer to drift off so head to bed a little earlier than normal to get a good night's sleep.

Although many brides say they feel too anxious or excited to eat in the morning, it really is important to have a hearty breakfast to get you through the day.

If you can, prolong the day as long as possible, arrange a get together the night before or the following day! You spend so long planning the occasion, you want it to last forever!

Hire a make-up artist and hairdresser - you want to spend the morning relaxing so let someone else run around for you and give you that all important wedding look!

Take time out of the day to spend with your husband-to-be. It might sound obvious, but with all your guests wanting to spend time with you it's easy for time to run away.

The Twiddly Bits

Pre-wedding at Oddfellows is all about treats and fun – we have a rule that jitters are not allowed on the premises! Start the build up to the wedding by hosting your hen party at Oddfellows – you can either hold it at the venue you'll be married in to showcase it to your hens or mix it up by holding it at the sister hotel.

Enjoy pampering, cocktail masterclasses and allow our event planning team to make lots of other suggestions to make your hen party a night or weekend to cherish. From stylish, sophisticated swan parties to a good old-fashioned knees-up, we can plan an event that will make the celebrations unforgettable.

Closer to the date, we can host a rehearsal dinner for some of your wedding party, whether you'd like an informal BBQ get-together or a more formal affair. And some of our brides like to host a bridesmaids brunch on the day of the wedding – combined with a pampering session!

High End Hens

The humble hen party has come a long way since hot pink bride-to-be sashes and polyester veils.

But they're still fun aren't they?!

Modern brides want a stylish, personalised, cool and above all classy hen party – that is different (and better) than anyone else's! So, for an unforgettable time with your best girls, contact our events team for top ideas for a wonderful hen party.

Engagement

Parties

WHO HOSTS THE PARTY

Traditionally, the bride's parents host the engagement party, but nowadays it's more common for the couple to organise the bash themselves or for friends of the bride and groom to volunteer and get involved. You could host two – the first for relatives and close family friends, and the second for your own friends.

WHO TO INVITE

The engagement party used to be a more intimate event for the couple's nearest and dearest, but nowadays more couples are using it as an excuse to invite people that might not necessarily be included in the wedding – such as newer friends, colleagues, parents' friends – or people who can't travel far to the wedding. This is particularly true for informal parties hosted by the couple's friends for example. For a traditional and more formal party, guests who are invited to the engagement party should also be invited to the wedding as a rule of thumb, so it's best to organise your wedding guest list before you throw the engagement party.

WHEN TO HAVE IT

Ideally the engagement party will come reasonably soon after the proposal, while the excitement is still fresh and before the stress of serious wedding planning kicks in. Give guests about a month's notice and schedule the party for about nine to eleven months before the wedding.

Wedding Planning

“Every love story is beautiful, but yours is our favourite!”

People are at the essence of everything we do. We know it is our team, and the care they offer, that makes our guests experience and also provides lasting memories. There are no better hands to be in than those of our wedding co-ordinators. Organised, efficient, caring, they will support you throughout all the important decisions you might make for this very special of days.

It's important to remember that we are an independent hotel collection and with that comes great freedom of choice for our brides and grooms. Menus can absolutely be bespoke and every little detail can be individually planned. We offer the ultimate flexibility so that your day can be as special and as distinctive as you are and this is something that makes us very proud!
